Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1, 11, 21, 23, 24, 27 and 35 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 and 2 of Sheffield U.S. Patent No. 6,603,966 B1 in view of Hawkes et al. (US 5,973,643).

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because Sheffield discloses transmitting a call comprising a communication signal from a mobile wireless device to a radio base station, the communication signal comprising call data; receiving the communication signal and delivering the communication signal to a switch that forwards the call; receiving the communication signal and obtaining uplink performance parameters associated with the communication signal; obtaining location information of the mobile wireless device by analyzing the communication signal; and evaluating the performance of the wireless system using the uplink performance parameters associated with the communication received from the mobile wireless device and the location information of the mobile wireless device.

However, Sheffield as applied above does not specifically disclose using a first receiver for receiving the communication signal and delivering the communication signal to a switch that forwards the call and using a second receiver for receiving the communication and obtaining uplink performance parameters as well as location information of the mobile wireless device. In an analogous art, Hawkes discloses a base station having a plurality of receivers attached to an antenna of the base station whereas each receiver is assigned to perform a particular function such as connecting a call or positioning a mobile terminal's location. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the technique of Hawkes to the system of Sheffield to provide multiple receivers working in combination within a base station to balance the work load so that performance and position measurements as well as connecting calls can be made in an efficient manner.

Regarding claims 2 – 7, 9 – 10, 12 – 17, 22, 25, 26, 28, 30 – 34 and 36, all the dependent claims which depend on the rejected independent claims, under double patenting, are also rejected under double patenting as well.
